POINTS FORTS

Nardo Grey with Black Recaro Sportseats

Visual modifications to the R8 Green Hell The new special edition is based on the R8 V10 Performance Quattro. Technically, everything remains the same, which means it is powered by a 620 pk V10 engine.

The differences lie purely in the styling.

The launch colour is Tioman Green, a reference to the Green Hell and to the colour scheme of the race version with start number 1.

But for those who find the green shade too green and feel it doesn't fit with the Green Hell theme, there are the colours Ibis White, Daytona Grey and Mythos Black, and paint to sample NARDO GREY like this one.

Nr 50 of 50 Produced cars.

The R8 Green Hell features a sticker livery. Black matt or glossy panels bearing text have been applied to the bonnet, windscreen, sideblade, roof, B-pillar and A-pillar.

These elements really stand out against a light-coloured body. This is certainly true of the 20-inch alloy wheels in a 5-spoke design, which have a red tint.
